

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S NEW AUTOMOBILE TO COST STATE $3,635

Purchase of Car for Immell is Approved by State Emergency Board

MADISON, Wis.—Ralph M. Immell, adjutant general, is to have a new automobile costing the state $3,635 following action by the Wisconsin emergency board which recently authorized purchase of the car.

Governor J. J. Blaine, Fred R. Zimmerman, secretary of state and Solomon Levitan, state treasurer, signed the order authorizing the purchase for the adjutant general's office, which is the only one of its kind in the state.

The bill of purchase sets the price of the large automobile at $3,385, exclusive of "extras." These extras include: shock absorbers $45; disc wheels $109; mounted trunk, $75; tire carrier, $20; and motor mower $10; making the total price $3,635, according to the secretary of state's office.

The emergency board had authority to make appropriations in absence of action by the legislature, when called to meet by the governor.

HARDING DENIES PLAN TO GIVE UP MARION AS HOME

MARION, Ohio.—Explicit denial was made Tuesday by President Harding that he intends to sever his relations with Marion as a citizen. The following telegram received by George H. Van Fleet, editor of the Star, says:

"I note in the press statements that my sale of a controlling interest in the Star means the severance of my relation with Marion as a citizen. Please publish an explicit denial. Such an announcement is of no particular interest to anybody excepting my life-long friends of Marion and myself, but I do wish it understood at home that I have never entertained a thought of changing my residence. The ties of a lifetime are not so easily severed."

Autos Plunge Into Crowded Street

A freakish accident occurred in an uptown New York street, just off Broadway, when two automobiles tumbled out of the second story window of a garage. Passing crowds returning from theaters narrowly escaped death when a mechanic tried to move one machine and it rammed into another so hard that both were propelled through the window. Picture shows the first machine overturned and the second lying on its side.

ATTACK PENDING IN LEGISLATURE ON BIG APPROPRIATION BILLS

Huber Declares He Will Oppose
"too Liberal Grants" of
Board of Control

MADISON, Wis.—Large appropriation bills pending in the legislature will be the object of attack before they are passed. Senator Henry Huber, chairman of the joint committee on finance, said Tuesday. He is prepared to oppose the committee report on several of the more important finance measures on the ground that too liberal grants are allowed under its provisions.

The University of Wisconsin appropriation before the assembly is nearly $200,000 more than allowed two years ago, a grant that Senator Huber disapproves of. He expects that the committee report will be contested in the lower house.

Similarly, certain features of the board of control appropriation bill and the normal school bill, are expected to be attacked on the floor, before finally the measures get to the governor. The assembly is preparing to attack income surtax provisions to each of the larger appropriation grants.

Should the senate kill the general income tax bill, a deadlock between the senate and assembly over a policy of surtaxes, is looked for by Senator Huber. The lower house has indicated its willingness to finance the state government by imposing surtaxes on incomes, while the upper house has already voted down a proposal to impose surtaxes.

The financial program mapped out by the legislature is in much of a muddle until the general tax bill is finally disposed of, the legislators generally admit. They look for the present week to clear up the whole mix-up.

SEIZED VESSELS REPORTED FAST IN ARCTIC ICE

SEATTLE, Wash.—The Silver Wave and the Blue Sea, two of four American trading schooners that were last week reported held by soviet authorities at East Cape, Siberia, are fast in the ice of the Arctic ocean at East Cape, 700 miles northwest of Seattle, according to word received here on Saturday.

Their crews are not in custody, it was stated, but the vessel were under orders to report to East Cape as soon as the ice permits them to move.

Traders here on Sunday called attention to the fact that the Silver Wave and Blue Sea cleared from American ports before the establishment of the soviet regime and therefore might be held entitled to American protection despite the fact, pointed out by the state department, that American vessels now enter Russian waters at their own risk.

LET GIRLS BE MARRY, SAYS GOVERNOR VETOING BILL

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—By The Associated Press.—Governor Richardson allowed the bill to raise the legal age of girls from 18 to 21 years to die by pocket veto because, he said, he believed girls between those ages not only should have the opportunity to marry, but he thinks early marriages promote better home life and improve citizens generally. "To prevent a girl 18 years of age from marrying," said the governor, "would be contrary to the laws of nature and science."

Facts Relating to Railroads

RAILWAYS—A NATIONAL ASSET: The United States is the wealthiest nation in the world today. It contains 5 4-10% of the land area of the world; 6 1-10% of the population of the world, and 36% of the railways of the world, or 259,655 miles. The railways are one of the nation's greatest assets. They provide transportation which is the basis of commerce and the means whereby exchange of products is accomplished. For each person in the United States in 1900 there was transported 8 tons of freight. For each person in 1920, 12 tons. The increasing cost of living is really the cost of better living.

VALUE OF TRANSPORTATION: Transportation is the measure of civilization. History confirms this statement. Production without transportation must be very limited, and if so limited would have greatly retarded the progress of civilization. Transportation increases the worth of all property it serves. Property values are largely determined by the ability of the property to produce and the owner's opportunity to dispose of the products at a profit. The value of all farm property in the United States increased from twenty and one-half billion dollars in the year 1900 to seventy-eight billion dollars in the year 1920, and the value of all farm products, at the same time, increased from five billion dollars to twenty billion dollars. This is due in part to adequate transportation.

INCREASE OF MANUFACTURES: Production is the measure of human efficiency and human progress. There is no limit to the amount of wealth that may be created except the limitation of production. The purchasing power of an individual community or nation lies in its power of production. Manufactured products in the United States increased from a value of eleven and one-half billion dollars in the year 1899 to sixty-two and one-half billion dollars in the year 1919. Transportation contributed substantially to this development by affording an easy method of exchange.

PROGRESS OF UNITED STATES: The total wealth of the United States has increased in the twenty-year period, from 1900 to 1920, two hundred ninety-five per cent. During the same period farm values in the United States have increased two hundred eighty-one per cent. Investments in manufacturing industries have increased three hundred ninety-eight per cent. Investment in railroads in the United States have increased ninety-three per cent. The expanding commerce of the country requires an expansion of railroad facilities and equipment. It is clear that railroad development has not kept pace with the growing commerce. A new era of expansion is necessary.

ADEQUATE RETURNS: The railroads in the United States increased their investment in locomotives, cars, yards, terminals and other railway property, in the ten years ended December 31, 1922, by more than five billion four hundred million dollars. The income they received in the year 1922 was eleven million dollars less than in the year 1913, being a smaller income from a substantially increased investment. Investors cannot prudently place their money in an industry which does not yield a reasonable rate of interest. An expanding commerce requires continued investment. It is clear that investments in railroads in the United States must be made more attractive and secure.

REASONABLE RATES: Railroad rates to be just and reasonable must, among other things, be sufficient to meet the cost of wages, materials and fuel, taxes and the interest on capital. No one expects a person to sell his wares at less than cost and all agree to a fair margin for the use of capital. The railroads should receive the same consideration, in order to render efficient service which is always our purpose.

Social Blindness

IT HAS frequently been observed in these columns that the great weakness of the progressive republican movement in Wisconsin is that it is too essentially economic. It makes always the pocketbook appeal. It lacks a progressive educational policy and program. It lacks a true sense of responsibility for the normal development of those whom dependency or crime has made wards or prisoners of the state. The housing, food and sanitation of the latter it comprehends, but to provide these at reasonable cost has been practically the sole target of its efforts.

One need not search for corroboration of these assertions. The educational achievements of the present legislature consisted of abolishing the state board of education because the members did not understand it, of moving the abolition of the teachers' pension fund, and of saving a relatively unimportant sum by cutting the University building fund.

So much for education. However, the legislature may partially redeem itself regarding the penal, corrective and dependency institutions. It has before it a measure which would provide means and personnel for a complete survey of these institutions. Out of this investigation advocates of a more constructive policy hope will come new knowledge and new purposes relating to unfortunates whom circumstances or delinquency have isolated. It is understood that Senator La Follette has paused long enough in his consideration of purely material issues to acknowledge the necessity of recognizing these problems, and has stamped the principle embodied in the resolution with his favor. Because possession of wealth brings a sense of stewardship to the conscientious, conservatives generally have been more interested in the care of the unfortunate than have the progressives. Governor Blaine's first active reaction to the idea was his move to have the mental responsibility of all war veterans booked in court, tested, in order to serve the needs of justice rather than merely express society's retaliatory attitude toward the offender against society. While this came as an after thought, it was indeed a step in the right direction.

But as this newspaper has repeatedly urged, we shall not proceed far with this great constructive problem until we have in the board of control at least one member thoroughly versed in the functions of these institutions to cure, to develop, to restore, to bring out the latent citizenship of the inmate. That thus far we have no such member is, in our judgment, evidenced by the dismissal of Dr. Prince, of the Sparta orphanage.

We readily grant that Dr. Prince may not know how to make a dollar go as far as do some men. We shall not quarrel with other critics lodged against his physical administration. But everyone who is acquainted with social work in this state knows that Dr. Prince is a leader, a pioneer, a prophet in that phase of the work which deals with human material. Making full allowance for the importance of the financial and physical sides of administration, we venture the opinion that were Dr. Prince to replace any single one of the board members who are depriving the state of his services, that organization would assume a new value and its work a new meaning to social progress.

Harding in Wheat Belt

IN THE grain belt President Harding drove a binder and shocked wheat. That is one of the stage properties of the great political drama. It is supposed to create a sort of kinship between the candidate and the people, or perhaps to suggest to the common man that the candidate is a common man, which often is the case. It is perfectly harmless, usually rather pleasant, and relieves the campaign from too much seriousness.

However, kicking about in the wheat fields will not make much difference with what the farmers think of President Harding. What he said to them about their business is the thing that will make or break him with them. He "talked turkey" to the farmers, but whether or not he talked sense may not make all the difference in the world.

The president told the farmers that "prices can not be manufactured," and that congress had already done for them all that could be done. If that is the truth, the farm bloc may as well disband. Of course the farm bloc is not going to disband. Probably it wouldn't disband even though its work were done. A group of men do not freely lay aside such power as that which has been acquired by the farm bloc. But the farm bloc doesn't consider its work done. It still has an ambitious program, and the president's declaration that legislation can do no more for the farmer will probably serve only to stimulate and further solidify the farm bloc.

Probably a majority of farmers will agree with President Harding that prices can not be manufactured. Or, at least, they are drifting in that direction. Having government make the prices of farm products was an alluring idea at first. But of late it has been occurring to farmers to ask whether it is wise to give government control to their business. If the government fixes prices it will have to fix them both ways. In assuming to make them high enough it also assumes not to permit them to be too high. One recalls the storm of protest from farmers when they declared the government's war price of wheat, then $2.20 per bushel was not high enough.

The present program of the farm bloc may not all be practical, yet it contains some things which deserve consideration. Probably the president's assertion that nothing more can be done is too broad. It is likely, too, that as we drift back toward America's normal individualism farmers themselves will discard some things that have at least stimulated their interest.

Heart

A CURE for the dread heart disease, angina pectoris, seems to be in sight. Dr. K. F. Wenckebach of the medical clinic in Vienna tells about it—much research work, two successful operations.

Heart surgery is the newest thing in medicine. Who knows but what future generations will have defective hearts repaired as the mechanic now overhauls the auto motor?

Most wonderful, possibly, of all things on earth is the human heart. Most of us abuse it—overspeed our engine. Good plan to lie down for 20 minutes occasionally, especially after exertion. When you stand, the heart pumps blood upward the full length of your body. Lying down, the blood lift is slight, like water flowing through pipes.

Love's a gamble. Texas sheik who played with hearts and diamonds was dealt with by clubs and patted in the face with a spade.

Some men are cautious; they want two guesses at the winner of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight.

Circumstantial Evidence

Charlotte Crawford was the daughter and only child of Squire Crawford, president of the local bank at Masonville. She was pretty enough to be the heroine of any story and just as sweet and good as she was pretty. Moreover she was in love with Addison Douglas, although she had known him only six months. It seemed to her, as it seemed to Addison, as if they had always known each other.

"Addison," said Charlotte one night, "I do wish you would trust me a little more. If you love me as you say you do, why will you not tell me why you came to Masonville. Of course, I know that you are not my cousin—father admitted that—but what is it that you are concealing from me?"

"Charlotte dear," replied Addison, "for just a little while longer I must ask you to trust me. I can't tell you all just now."

"But you don't trust me," said Charlotte.

Addison sighed. "I can't explain," he said, "but you will trust me yet a little longer?"

"Yes, dear," said Charlotte. "How can I help it?" And that little matter was settled for the time being.

We change the scene: It was a dark rainy night as the "enforcement officers" waited impatiently for the boat which was to attempt to land a cargo of illicit "hooze" at the end of the old road which led down to the long deserted wharf.

"There she comes," said one of the officers and the sound of a motor boat was heard out on the black rain-swept water, approaching with all her lights on.

"We've got 'em," chuckled one of the watchers. But even as he spoke from neighboring headland a rocket shot up into the black sky and the sounds of the motor-boat began to recede.

"They're on," cried the chief of the party, "we've been double-crossed. Into the launch, he lively." Into a launch which had lain hidden in a neighboring creek for just such an emergency, the men tumbled and the chase was on. Out into the bay and then up a long, narrow arm which penetrated far into the land they followed the run-ship, starting by the sound of her engine—in the dense darkness and rain it was impossible to see the object of their pursuit.

Soon after entering the arm of the bay they lost the sound of the motor-boat's engines. They stopped and listened intently. Several little creeks branched off between heavily wooded banks.

"I hear 'em!" cried the chief at last. "Here, give me that wheel." And up one of the dark narrow waterways they sped. Presently close ahead they made out the bulk of the run-running boat. "Stand up," yelled the chief as he and his men leaped ashore. But the only reply was the sound of a motor truck being madly driven away into the night. The run-runners had worked quickly in transferring their cargo and themselves. The motor-boat was practically empty. So the run-runners escaped and Addison Douglas was again entering the house of the Widow Leeds where he boarded at five o'clock that morning with a heavy and suspicious looking bundle under his arm.

Georgiana McCombe, who went out nursing and who was returning from an all night vigil, saw him. When later in the day all Masonville was talking about the run-runners episode—curious how quickly such matters get abroad in seaside towns—Georgiana contributed to the general gossip her early morning discovery. Within an hour Addison had been convicted at the bar of public opinion as a run-runner and a boot-legger.

He was a bright handsome young man, but that did not help him. He had appeared in Masonville just after the counterfeiting gang had been rounded up at the old Milling Place, three miles away in the woods, and had been introduced by Squire Crawford as his nephew come to a quiet place to recover his health. Though old Ethel Holliman, who knew everybody and everything, declared that it was the "last" time he ever heard of the squire having a nephew, and as to the health Addison "did not look as if he needed much doctoring."

Now all was explained. The only question was whether Squire Crawford had been imposed upon, or had succumbed to the lure of the run-runners' tremendous profits. Everybody knew that the Squire "did love money."

The Widow Leeds was "all of a flutter." The day before she had seen a telegram lying on Addison's table and had, of course, read it. It was from New York and had said, "It will be tonight." Addison was still asleep upstairs when the widow heard the news, so she went bursting with information.

Shortly before noon Addison appeared on the street boldly carrying the incriminating bundle which Georgiana had seen him with. His passage caused a sensation. A small crowd gathered behind him and saw him enter the bank and disappear into Squire Crawford's private office.

"Get in," asked the Squire.

"Yes," replied Addison. "Here it is."

The Squire took the bundle and looked it up in the safe. Then chuckling with unlooked-for pleasure, he told Addison of the excitement in the village.

The young man laughed heartily, but Georgiana's burning serious said, "By George! this won't do. I must go and explain to Charlotte. Those papers will have been at her before this and the poor girl will be in a dicken's of a state. She promised to trust me, it is true, but I had better go right off and explain things."

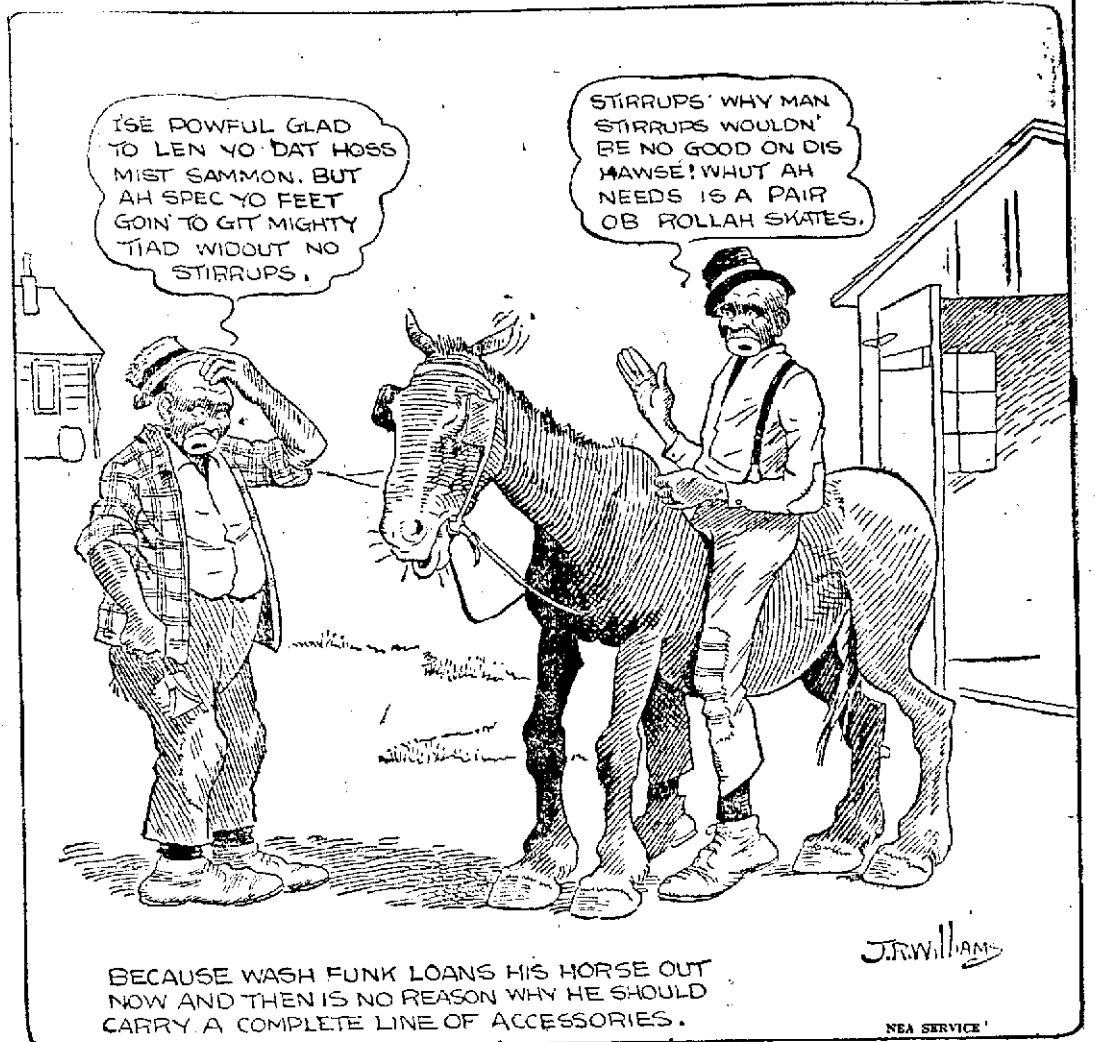

"The circumstantial evidence is sure against us, Squire."

And he hurried away to the Crawford home.

Georgiana and the Widow Leeds had been before him. And had been shown the door by Charlotte. But not before they had unburdened their minds.

"Oh, Addison," said Charlotte,

OUT OUR WAY

"what does all this mean?" He saw that she had been crying.

"Charlotte dear," he replied, "did you not say you would trust me?"

"Yes, and now that you are here, I do. But for a while they had so many things which pointed to—oh, Addison, for a while, is it too soon to ask you to tell me all, dear?"

And he told her. When the counterfeiting gang had been captured, their plates had not. They were supposed to be hidden somewhere near Masonville. Addison, a government detective, had been sent down to keep watch of the locally white "Shifty" Lanigan, one of the captured counterfeiters, was worked upon to betray the hiding place of the plates. By means known to the secret service, that had finally been accomplished, and it was by a coincidence that the night upon which Lanigan had agreed to lead the detective to the hiding place had coincided with the night of the run-running episode. Addison's apparently incriminating bundle contained the plates.

Charlotte and Addison were married and went to live in New York where he now runs a private detective agency. The newspapers had a detailed account of the whole affair but Georgiana and the Widow Leeds shook their heads and said, "You can't believe a thing you see in the newspapers nowadays."

A Letter from a Self Made Mapl-Flaker to His Son

Dear George:

Now that you're out "rassling" the world to take a livin' away from it, your Ma and I are squirming on our ringleads, a-seats, wondering if you know a hammerlock from a half nelson - and whether you think the rules of training were made to keep or to break.

It was no fool, George, that wrote "early to bed and early to rise" -- you'll find it a pretty good rule to follow. And if you'll present that landlady of yours with a box of Mapl-Flake so you'll never fail to get a big dish in the morning, you'll find yourself stepping off the front porch with a lead-me-to-it-I'm-as-good-as-two-men-to-day feeling that will put that silver lining in your pocket before you know it.

I've learned a lot in 54 years, son. I hold no stock in the Mapl-Flake business -- but I do know that wheat is the "staff of life" and that the bran that's in the whole wheat is "good for what ails me" -- and you too. That's how your Ma and I came to be "Mapl-Flakers."

We've got to have our bran every day -- Old Mother Nature can give the pill and dope makers bards and epodes and lick them at their own game. And we've found that in Mapl-Flake we get enough bran, and have good, delicious, nourishing eating.

It doesn't make much difference, George, whether you sit at a desk or swing a shovel, whether you "rassle" ideas or men, you've got to put real fuel in the boiler and shovel out the ashes regularly if you're going to get up a big head of steam and toot your whistle so people can hear it.

Go to it, son. Put honest-to-goodness foot under your belt, get in nights and out daytime, and you can't lose. Love from Ma and me.

An old dyed-in-the-wool Mapl-Flaker.

PHONE OPERATORS IN NEW ENGLAND STATES ON STRIKE

Walkout Voted by Union Members; Demand Shorter Hours and Higher Wages

BOSTON, Mass.—Telephone operators went on strike Tuesday in all the New England states except Connecticut. The strike was called by one union for shorter hours and higher wages. Members of a rival union remained at work.

Members of the rival unions, emerging from mass meetings in Boston early Tuesday, threatened to clash physically. Extra details of police kept 2,000 girls on the move. The operators who voted to strike shouted "Scabs" at their rivals, who retorted "We're strikers."

Cat-calls, hisses and yells were heard on Newspaper Row.

The strike had its chief strength in the large cities. Many exchanges in small centers reported that their operators would remain at work. The number of operators employed in New England, excluding Connecticut, is 12,535, of whom 6,100 are in the greater Boston area. In the strike vote of last Tuesday it said that 7,999 ballots were cast, of which 6,466 were in favor of a strike.

HARDING DISCUSSES COAL PROBLEM IN PLATFORM ADDRESS

President Declares Opposition to Nationalization of Mines

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—In a discussion here on Monday of the nation's coal problems in which he mentioned the industry, the consuming public and the government's interest in all phases of coal operations, President Harding recorded himself as being opposed to "nationalizing the mines" and declared that the United States coal commission would bring the country "a new understanding" of the problem and point out a solution "in behalf of a vital public interest."

The chief executive spoke from the observation platform of his car. Mr. Harding referred to the strike of last year, asserting his opinion that many mine operators were as much responsible for that situation as the men who struck.

The operators, he said, had insisted they could produce all the coal that was needed if the law was enforced. "The law enforcement was provided," Mr. Harding added, "but no coal was produced. There can be no coal mining in free America under the force of arms."

The highest need of the world today, the president said, was working, adding that the world has no use for a leader, big or little, "whether commanding capital or directing labor."

HEIDELBERG TO GET HELP FROM ABROAD

Famous German University is Bequeathed Sum of 50,000 Pounds by Briton

HEIDELBERG, — By The Associated Press.—Faculty and students of Heidelberg university are rejoicing over the announcement that the institution will receive 50,000 English pounds from the estate of the late Dr. Mond, who founded one of the leading chemical houses in England and is the father of Sir Alfred Mond, who was a member of the Lloyd George cabinet. MODEST POLISH FAMILY INHERITS GREAT WEALTH

WARSAW.—All the lucky Poles with rich relatives in the United States seem to live in Chopiniana. During recent years several citizens of this town have inherited large sums of money from American Poles, but it appears that the biggest fortune of all has just fallen to the members of a family of the name of Holleb, in moderate circumstances, who are reported to have inherited $36,000,000 from Frank Holleb, of Buffalo, N. Y.

"BACK TO THE SOIL" MOVEMENT ON AMONG WORKERS IN SWEDEN

Unused Lands Being Turned to Agricultural Production to Aid Unemployed

STOCKHOLM.—By The Associated Press.—Sweden's "back to the soil" movement, started to turn certain unused lands to agricultural production and at the same time provide farms for the excess of industrial workers who had difficulty in finding employment when the post-war boom ended, has already resulted in a number of new and successful farming colonies, according to the Stockholm newspapers.

A typical case which illustrates how men without jobs have been transferred into proprietors of forty-acre farms, with home, livestock, implements, etc., is seen in the colony at Basko. A tract of 476 acres, part of a private estate, was purchased by the Private Homes commission and divided up into ten farms. Three tenant families of the estate were put into possession of a parcel each on condition that they serve as leaders and instructors of the other seven colonies, who were selected from the supernumeraries of the outlying works at Basko. Each farm had a cottage, and the commission further provided each colonist with one horse, two cows, a number of hogs, chickens, etc. Each farm has 20 acres or more of forest, which, it is expected, will be conserved and made productive.

The average cost of the land was $1,500 for each farm, and the cost of the improvements, when completed, will average about $1,300. The financing was done by the Private Homes commission out of public funds appropriated for the purpose. Each farmstead carries a mortgage, but the interest is low, and the terms of payment easy.

Flowers That Possess Perfume.—Of 6,000 species of flowers cultivated in Europe, only 420 possess an agreeable odor, 350 varieties are offensive in odor and 2360 have no perceptible smell. Of the sweet-smelling flowers the majority have white or cream-colored petals. Then follow, in order named, yellow, red, blue and violet. Only 13 out of 308 varieties of violet-colored flowers have a pleasing perfume.

T. B. Clinic Not Delayed By Bad Weather

Neither heat nor cold have delayed the workers of the Anti-Tuberculosis Clinic. 52 people were examined on Monday. 150 had been examined by noon Tuesday.

One woman who visited the clinic on Monday reported that a few days before two of her teeth dropped out on the floor. Another woman said that she had picked out with her fingers six of her teeth. This is the result of advanced pyorrhea.

Pyorrhea is a common infection due to the neglect of teeth and the failure to keep a clean mouth. The dentist should be visited at least once in six months and the teeth should always be brushed at night. Puss infection from the teeth is absorbed into the system and lowers the vitality and is thus a factor in causing tuberculosis. Anything that lowers bodily resistance plays a part in tuberculosis. Because of this the clinic is trying to teach the importance of keeping healthy teeth. They are trying to teach mothers and the teachers in the schools to instruct children to brush their teeth at least twice a day. Children should begin brushing their teeth at the age of five or six. The first molars come then and that is the time to teach health habits. This will prevent pyorrhea infection which if carried from the teeth to the organs may cause lung, rheumatism, appendicitis, ulcers of the stomach, and infection of the gall bladder.

When the people realize the necessity of caring for their teeth there will be less disease in the community. Arising in the clinic were Miss Mary Hines, Miss Elizabeth Roberts, La Crosse Hospital; Miss L. Sandaker, Miss Marie Hallan, Miss Alma Gantard, Lutheran Hospital; Miss Stella Brady, Miss Margaret Gantard, St. Francis Hospital; Miss Addie Gydal, Miss F. P. Novak, Miss Christine Johnson, Grandview Hospital; Miss Viola Nehr, Miss Mary Regan, Miss Josephine Semsch, Miss Buck, Miss Jahnke, Miss Kimball and Miss Thompson.

BLONDS WANTED FOR VAMPING TO ENGINEER BUSINESS DEALS

DE SACIA MOOERS

BY MARIAN HALE

Perhaps you thought vamps operated almost exclusively in movies or in high society.

If so, let De Sacia Mooers, movie favorite, correct your impression. The vamp of today, she says, is in business. And she's making good.

"Vamping," she informed me, "is a recognized profession in the business world. You find the siren employed by large commercial establishments, in banks and in big corporations—wherever it is necessary to engineer details that require finesse in paying some man for his money. That's where women's generation of training may be put to account."

The new type of vamp doesn't pay, instead, she gets richly paid for her services, it seems.

"The business vamp of today," my informant went on, "is not the conventional raven-hued enchantress who begins to ogle as soon as she sees a man, and hence puts him on guard. She is almost exclusively the blond type.

Ah, Those Eyes!
"The blond is more subtly appealing. No one ever knows what deep-dyed schemes are being hatched behind her calm, laughing eyes. She is the northern type, you know, coming from a race that has had to fight hard for its existence. She doesn't expect to get on by her sex alone.

MR. AND MRS. E. L. Rumsey and daughter, Miss Ethel Rumsey, returned Saturday night from a week's vacation trip in the northern part of the state, where they visited Mr. Charles Rumsey, and Mrs. Emma Woodward, brother and sister of the former. THE LADIES' AID society of the Trinity Lutheran church will meet at the church parlors, Charles and Hill streets, Wednesday afternoon. The hostesses will be Mesdames Andrew Anderson, Carl Anderson and Arthur Jack Johnson.

A VERY HAPPY PICNIC was enjoyed at Copeland park on Saturday afternoon. The occasion was a joint meeting of the vacation schools of the north side Scandinavian Baptist church, and of the First Baptist church. Volleyball games and indoor games held the attention of the children. Two out of three games was the requirement for volleyball. The First Baptist vacation school won the first two games so that it was unnecessary to play the third. An indoor ball game was enjoyed, the score being 20 to 11 in favor of the First Baptist when the game was called. Both contests were very spirited, and were entered into with much zest by the children.

Pleasure In Making Own Lingerie

A little trimming changes lingerie from plain to gorgeous.

It rarely pays to make ordinary underthings, but the woman who loves exquisite lingerie will not only find it an economy but a pleasure to make her own.

If she insists upon silk, crepe de chine is the most satisfactory material. But China and Japan silk and chiffon cloth are close seconds and wear quite as well as the fine batistes. Sometimes one can pick up plain lingerie at the shops reasonably priced, and then by trimming it with bits from the scrap-bag, can transform it into such pieces as, if bought from the exclusive shops, would come well within the luxury class lingerie.

This, too, is true of corsets. Buy them of, say, satin-faced coutil at $2.50 to $3.50 and run a frill of lace across the top or a ruching of satin ribbon. Add lace medallions to the front, appliqueing them with pretty-colored silk and a bow or rosette of satin ribbon at the top—and there you have an expensive looking corset, made perhaps entirely from odds and ends of ribbon and laces.

There are several ways of inserting lace, but the most satisfactory is to paste it on carefully alongside each edge, then cut the material away, leaving as narrow an edge as can be turned in to prevent raveling. Then overcast the two edges, that is the lace and fabric, together in cord fashion, as already explained.

Medallions are always an attractive and easy method of decoration, as also are ribbon bows or choux, which are made of many loops. Cockades, fixed rosettes with two streamers dangling, are newer.

Household Suggestions

BEFORE SERVING OLIVES

You can make ordinary olives much more delicious if you open the bottle about an hour before you want to use them, pour off the brine and add a tablespoon of olive oil. Shake the bottle well. The briny taste will disappear and they will have a much richer taste.

SALT KEPT DRY

Keep your kitchen salt from becoming lumpy by adding cornstarch to it.

CLEAN OIL MOP

Clean your oil mop frequently with hot water, ammonia and a little washing powder.

CRACKER BOXES

The cardboard boxes in which you buy your crackers make excellent polishers for your flat irons since they are coated with wax.

FRYING EGGS

Mix about a tablespoon of flour in the grease in which eggs are to be fried and the eggs will not pop while cooking.

PRELATE FREED AS HE PLEDGES LOYALTY TO RUSSIAN SOVIET

Friends Express Belief that Letter from Tikhonov Was Signed Under Duress

MOSCOW.—By The Associated Press.—The supreme court has decided to release Archbishop Tikhonov pending his trial on the charge of resisting the soviet authorities. It was announced Tuesday. The decision is the result of the letter which government circles recently announced the former patriarch had written from his prison cell expressing regret for his past actions and declaring his readiness to swear allegiance to the soviet government.

A Ruter dispatch from Riga says it is generally believed in the Latvian capital that Archbishop Tikhonov, former patriarch of all Russia, was in a state of mental irresponsibility, due to torture when he was induced to sign a letter to the soviet authorities declaring his readiness to swear allegiance to the government and asking that the letter be used in his forthcoming trial.

Lines Down at Green Acres

Along the boulevard of poplars at Green Acres, on State road, telephone poles were leveled to the ground for a great distance. Huge branches of the trees along the boulevard obstructed the greater part of the road and in many places permitted only one-way traffic Monday night. Scores of curious autoists ventured out State road and stopped to view the wreckage along the line and at the Hyde and Funk farm.

Crops were laid low wherever the storm struck in the country districts, and some damage was done by the hail.

The float which is being built by the La Crosse Canoe club near the mouth of the La Crosse river weathered the storm safely, but was torn loose from its moorings some time during the night by the current and carried down stream and stranded, half sunken, on a sand bar 100 yards from its mooring place.

Sewer in Street

Street sewers were quickly clogged with bits of broken branches and leaves during the storm, and the water collected in large pools at most of the street intersections in the city. The corner of Fifteenth and Cass streets was a veritable lake, with the water more than two feet deep. Several small children of the neighborhood donned bathing suits and enjoyed the unexpected swimming pool for a time.

Water backing over the curbs in the downtown district flooded several basements.

On Black River

Black river was lashed into a state of fury by the storm. The wind had a clear sweep across the lower end of French island and struck the east side of the river. At Copeland park, where most of the houseboats and bathhouses on the river are stationed between St. Cloud and Clinton streets, comparatively little damage was done. The roof was blown off of one bathhouse and the debris scattered over the park, just north of the tennis court. Another bathhouse in the same vicinity was blown up on shore and tipped over on its side.

Three houseboats anchored off the park survived the storm in fine shape. Charles Fay's houseboat, at the foot of St. Cloud street, shipped a little water but otherwise was not damaged. After Mr. Fay made his craft shipshape he went to the assistance of Mrs. L. B. Sullivan, whose houseboat is about a block north of the Fay boat. Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. E. Scellie, and her daughter, Ethel, and niece, Charlotte, were in the houseboat at the time the storm broke. The women thought the houseboat was going to be blown up to the ball park bleachers, but the boat passed through the storm safely. Mr. Fay made fast the cables and the craft rode the waves easily. Just north of Mrs. Sullivan's boat is a houseboat that recently arrived in port from Tennessee. It also escaped damage.

Windows Blown In

Two big windows on the west side of the Elsen and Phillips garage, Second and State streets, was blown in during the storm and water flooded the floor in the showroom.

Two windows in the Elks' club were broken during the storm and rugs and furniture were flooded before temporary barriers could be put up.

So strong was the wind that it drove sheets of water against windows exposed to the west and north with such force as to wick windowsills and floors inside. This happened ed in many stores, offices and residences.

Skiff Ferry Hard Hit

Saenger's skiff ferry at the north end of Riverside park got the full brunt of the storm. The bathhouse and surrounding floats were blown twelve feet inshore, the eastern docks being left up on the sand. Three launches were blown up on the outer docks, one resting after the storm with its nose in the water and the rear end supported by the propeller shaft high up on the dock. Another was blown over the outer dock sideways. Despite the force of the storm at this point, the damage was comparatively small.

Hospital Damaged

At St. Francis hospital two chimneys were blown down, one landing on the ground and the other on a roof, and tin roofing was rolled up and blown off one section of the big building. The damage was estimated at $500.

Dozens of awnings were ruined by the wind, being torn from the iron supports. Flags over public buildings were torn to shreds. All that was left of a new flag over the Elks' club this morning was a piece of cloth just about two feet long.

Is Cut Over Eye

Calvin Lockman, 811 Hagar street, sustained a cut over the eye when the storm door at the west entrance of the city hall was literally caved in by the wind. The door was blown from its hinges, breaking the glass, a particle of which struck Mr. Lockman.

At the residence of O. W. Muenster, 2510 Cass street, the heavy iron porch swing, suspended on chains, was swept from the porch, together with most of the screens. The steamer Capitol brought the Old Settlers of Winona county down to La Crosse on an excursion Monday afternoon, and made the run back through the storm safely. The boat was forced to tie up for a short time during the worst of the storm, but was not damaged, taking out a moonlight excursion from Winona Monday night.

Horse Nearly Blown Away

Thomas F. Lyons started for his summer cottage at Riverside a few minutes after the storm started Monday afternoon. He was driving a Ford coupe. The going was all right until he reached the causeway in Pettibone park. Then the wind "blew like 60" and the rain poured down in torrents. He got as far as the road that leads down to the camp and then drove the coupe to a large tree for protection. Taking off his shoes and stockings and rolling up his trousers he waded and stumbled to his cottage. Everything in it was pretty well washed by that time. On the way back he encountered several youngsters with a horse and buggy. They had been picking berries at La Crescent and were on their way home. Just as Mr. Lyons appeared a sudden furious blast of wind threatened to carry buggy, horse and children off the causeway. Mr. Lyons aided the children in hanging onto the horse and rig. Finally the horse and buggy were maneuvered to a point of safety from the large tree. That kept them from being blown away.

It was reported Tuesday morning that a Ford touring car, with a woman and two children as occupants, was blown off the causeway into the marsh during the storm Monday afternoon. It was impossible to obtain verification of the report up to press time Tuesday.

The roof was completely torn off the residence of J. M. Halvorsen, 2016 Park avenue, with a resulting damage of $1,000, while slight damage was done to the residences of August Rans and Philip Stone. Frank Schaper, who has a farm on the state road, suffered property damages amounting to about $350, a tobacco shed being demolished and two big doors torn off his barn. The plate glass front of Mutchow Bros. and Pruess' store on Main street was blown in and considerable damage done to merchandise on display in the window.

and $20,000 damage was wrought Monday when a severe windstorm wrecked the summer camp of the South Wisconsin conference at the Council Bluffs grounds. The storm broke when fifty camp workers were at the summer camp. A panic ensued when the main tent worth $1,800 was ripped to shreds by the wind. Fifty of the tents were torn up while the camp workers struggled amidst a cloudburst to protect their property. The camp will open Thursday night as scheduled.

Though the southern part of Fond du Lac county, the storm left a path of wreckage consisting of uprooted trees, blown down barns and silos. Windows were literally blown out of farm-homes and damage done to the extent of several thousand dollars.

Three hundred telephones were disabled in this city, and Oakfield was cut off from light for three hours owing to a break in transmission cables.

MILWAUKEE.—While 1,000 bathers crowded the beach at McKinley park, the body of an unidentified man, about 37 years old, was taken from the water, about 100 feet from the shore early Monday night.

The condition of the body was such as to indicate that the man had been in the water at least eight or more months, the coroner said.

TWO BENEFICIARIES OF COLT MILLIONS Suing for Divorce

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Two beneficiaries of the late Samuel P. Colt, millionaire head of the United States Rubber company—Ethel Barrymore Colt, actress, and Countess Eleanor Curran Maroni—have filed suits for divorce. Both cases are assigned for hearing here next week.

She is now staying at the Agathe Quebec, at the summer home of Sir Mortimer Davis, president of the Imperial Tobacco company of Great Britain.

She was last seen in her room at St. Agnes hospital, where she had been a patient for several days, at 5:30 a. m. on Monday. An autopsy will be performed to determine the cause of death.

PANDOLFO PROPERTY IN ST. CLOUD SOLD

ST. CLOUD, Minn.—The Pandolfo property, offered at public sale by Sheriff Schoener to satisfy mortgage indebtedness, was bid in by J. C. Carver, St. Louis, and Anton Schmitt, Painesville, Stearns county bankers, for $503,200, as trustees for the bondholders. The bondholders will have to wait for one year, until time for redemption expires, before title to the property will pass to them.

The property first was offered in separate parcels, but there were no bidders and it was then sold to the bondholders. The bid included the full amount of indebtedness, interest, taxes and cost of foreclosure.

Under a stipulation and order of the court, 60 per cent of the receipts from rents go to the bondholders and 40 per cent to Pandolfo.

ACCIDENT NARROWLY AVERTED SATURDAY ON TOMAH STREETS

TOMAH.—What might have been a fatal accident was averted through the presence of mind of Mrs. Gustave Stanke who was struck by an auto and dragged at least seventy-five feet. Had not the victim of the accident hung on with almost superhuman strength to the bumper of the car, she would no doubt have been struck and fatally injured by another car closely following the one driven by Frank Fuchs, which struck her. Mrs. Stanke was crossing Superior avenue on Saturday evening, at a time when a double line of cars make the street almost impassable. Stepping from between the line parked in the center of the avenue, Mrs. Stanke was immediately struck by Fuchs' car, the driver not discovering what had happened until called to by W. L. Howes who was on the sidewalk, and noticed the dragging woman. With but a slight injury to the fingers of her right hand, Mrs. Stanke rates herself lucky to be living and unmaimed.

ANNUAL HEALTH EXAMINATION IS URGED BY BOARD

"Let Your Doctor Look You Over Once a Year" Advice of Health Body

MADISON, Wis.—"Get the habit early in life of an annual physical examination," advises the state board of health in its quarterly bulletin issued Tuesday. The publication reviews the state's annual death figures for the degenerative diseases of adult life as justifying such a rule.

"Let your family physician look you over," urges the health boss. "Tell him frankly the way you are living, what you eat, how much exercise you are getting, etc. You may receive a valuable tip that will be worth 10, 20, or even 30 years of your life. It is much wiser to do this than to look back later and with a gloomy scowl on your face to say to yourself, 'If I had only known sooner.'"

The board calls this plan a great deal cheaper than paying for medicine, nursing, or hospital treatment. "Treat yourself as you would a rheumatoid mule, a good cow, your watch or a Ford car. If everything would begin to do this during the present year, there would be many thousands of people alive and in good health at this time next year who under other circumstances would probably be overcome by sickness and even death."

Most of the large industries have now one or more physicians to make such regular annual examinations of their employees in order that they may not lose time and money through sickness. Labor unions find it pays to safeguard their members by such examinations and early care. Schools require physical examinations for their pupils. Many state and city departments of health give such examinations free to every member of the department.

PHILIPPINE TROOPS TO FIGHT LOCUST INVASION

MANILA.—By The Associated Press.—Governor General Leonard Wood, Brigadier General Rafael Tene, head of the Philippine constabulary, and many other officials, together with the people generally, joined on Saturday in a fight against an invasion of locusts that covered the northern section of Manila like a blanket and threatened destruction to sugar cane crops in some of the provinces.

In some districts the swarms were so dense that the landscape became a high shadow in bright sunlight.

Rush telegrams were sent to United States constabulary posts on the island of Luzon, ordering the troops to drop everything else and fight the locusts.

TWENTY TONS OF SEA MONSTER

After this 20,000-pound sea monster was hoisted off Long Key, Fla., it put up a 12-hour fight that ended only when 50 bullets from a high-power rifle were fired into it. It is 35 feet long, 23 feet in girth, with a tail span of 12 feet. Naturalists say it belongs to a rare family called the "Pachyptera" family, part whale and part shark. An idea of its size may be had from this view of its mouth, only partly open.

NEW COAL MINE BARRED BY U. S. TOO MANY NOW

Unusual Decision Made by Interstate Commerce Commission on Monday

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Making a new departure in the field of railway regulation, the interstate commerce commission held Monday that there already are enough coal mines in the country, and solely on that ground refused to permit the Virginian railway to build a one mile branch in West Virginia to serve mines being opened by the Pocahontas Fuel company.

The proposed branch, on which work already has begun, is in the Gandyot river valley and was to have cost only $82,000. None of the usual objections to the project were raised.

Too Many Mines Now

In denying the requested authorization, the commission held that fewer mines would in reality produce more coal because railroad facilities and rolling stock could be better concentrated. The decision pointed out that in the past year there were twenty-eight weeks when the Virginian road was unable to supply more than 50 per cent of cars ordered by mines already in existence.

"There are at present," said the commission, "more mines in the country than is consistent with the efficient use of carriers equipment and their aggregate car supply."

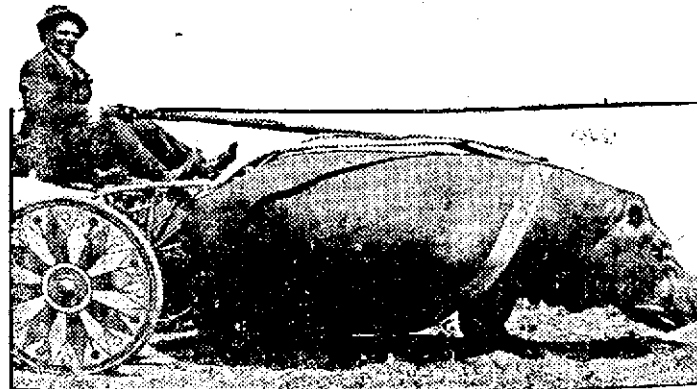

Decision Is Unusual

In the past the commissions control of new railroad construction has only been exercised where doubt appeared of the ability of the railroad to find the money necessary for the investment contemplated, or where it appeared that the traffic possibilities of the new line were insufficient to give a return on the investment.

Adams addressed to each member of the national committee a request to appoint as early as possible a woman in his respective state who will serve as an associate member of the republican national committee.

The Human Element in Industry

IN business there is no such thing as independence. Business is part of the social fabric where every individual is, directly or indirectly, dependent upon every other individual. The stockholder is dependent upon the employee, and the employee on the stockholder, while both are dependent upon the public who buy and consume the products they manufacture.

Stockholders and employees also are consumers. In the case of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) more than eight thousand of the employees are part owners in the business.

With a keen realization of this interdependence, the company, the management and the employees practice that sound Yankee fairness in dealing with one another, which makes for better understanding and industrial harmony.

The individual employee is a citizen just as the individual stockholder is a citizen. Whether or not he is a good citizen often depends upon whether he is busy, happy and successful in the business which engages his attention.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is proud of its employees; they are good citizens, law-respecting, thrifty, industrious and happy in their industry. Experience has proved that this type of citizen makes the best employee. The employee who is zealous in the performance of his duty, who strives to give the public as well as the Company good service, is a citizen worthy of the name.

It is the policy of this Company to pay its workmen a good wage. Also it is the policy of this Company to promote and encourage "personal contact" between the employees and the management.

This open-door policy of fair dealing has resulted in uniform enthusiasm and loyalty on the part of the employees, and because of it the Company is better able to fulfill, in a satisfactory manner, its obligations to the people of the Middle West.

DOGSKIN JOHNSON IS LOSER IN EFFORT TO COLLECT FROM STATE

Last Attempt to Obtain Compensation on Claim of False Imprisonment Proves Failure

MADISON, Wis.—John A. Johnson, more commonly known by his nickname, "Dogskin," whose name has continued to find its way into the press during the last 13 years, is now again numbered among Madison's common citizens.

The man who was arrested and then pleaded guilty to the charge of murdering seven years old Annie Lemberger in 1911 has discovered that there is no way for him to get compensation for the 10 years he served in Waupun prison for a crime of which he claims innocence.

Johnson, through his attorney, Judge Ole Stoen, attempted to recover through the courts but lost. The legislature was then asked to give Johnson $5,000. This bill passed the assembly but was killed in the senate. It was Johnson's last resort to get compensation.

Killing Johnson's bill probably is the last official act of one of the most sensational murder cases of Wisconsin. It will never be definitely decided who killed the little girl and threw her body in Lake Monona.

Johnson, who is mentally weak, and he pleaded guilty because he was told that it was the only way to save him from a mob that howled for his blood. As to who killed the girl most people have their own opinions and it will remain a subject of debate.

Apparently prison life has done no harm to the ex-convict. Several times before the killing of the girl he had been in trouble, once for an alleged attempt to wreck a train. He has led an industrious life since being freed, has abstained from liquor, and has not even needed a warning.

"The Woman Pays" might be the title of Mrs. Johnson's version of the whole affair. It is true that Johnson put in ten long years in prison but the prisoner's wife says that she led no enviable life during this time. Johnson as a prison trustee, enforced much freedom while Mrs. Johnson recalls that during all of this time she supported herself by taking in washing.

How Many Women Peel Their Faces at Home

Any woman nowadays may quickly rejuvenate her complexion at home by a safe and painless peeling process. It has been found that ordinary mercerized wax applied like cold cream at night causes the thin veil of lifeless, sallow or blotchy cuticle to gently flake off in tiny particles, revealing the fresh, vigorous and beautiful young skin underneath. The wax peels off only the unsightly outer film. The process defines, detaches and unveils a clear, white, lovely complexion which is, of course, a perfectly natural one. Many thousands of women now use mercerized wax, which may be obtained at any drug store. Naturally the process also removes all such surface blemishes as freckles, pimples, tan, liver spots. It makes the face look years younger.

MADISON, Wis.—When Wisconsin citizens hereafter pay their taxes they will find on the receipt an accounting of the way their money is to be spent, following Governor Blaine's signature Tuesday to a bill by Speaker John L. Duhl.

This measure provides that the tax receipt shall show how much of the tax goes for state purposes, how much for county and how much for maintenance of local enterprises. The object is said to be to demonstrate the small amount of state taxes.

The name of a dealer who says that any imitation is like Palmolive Soap. Not for prosecution, but to correct him—for the good of all concerned.

Common soaps are colored, shaped and named to make folks think they get Palmolive virtues in them. But they do not bring what you seek—what you buy Palmolive for. They are nothing like Palmolive.

Stop and think. There are countless soaps. But Palmolive has become the leading toilet soap of the world.

It brings envied complexions. Then users tell others about it. Millions of beauty lovers now employ it daily. All because of a palm and olive oil blend which our experts alone have perfected.

Now some makers try to deceive you. They make soaps to look like Palmolive, with a name of some similar sound. Just because women prize Palmolive. They want the benefits it brings. So the way to sell you common soap is to make it seem Palmolive.

If Palmolive is the soap you want, be careful that you get it. This is the soap that won world-wide fame by fostering fine complexions.

This is the quality soap—a 25-cent quality—which volume produces for 10 cents, so all folks may enjoy it.

This is the oil blend that does for your skin what every woman wants. If you ever find a better soap, get it. A soft, rosy skin is worth any price you pay.

But avoid deception. Don't buy an ordinary soap made to look or to sound like Palmolive. That cheats you of something you prize. Look at the name and wrapper.

CHICAGO, Ill.—Home runs by Bubbles Hargrave and Pat Duncan put the Cincinnati Reds in front, and they defeated Chicago, 6 to 5, on Monday. After the Reds had tied the count, Star's homer put Chicago ahead. They lost the advantage in the next inning on Hargrave's homer with a man on. TRI-STATES TRIM HARMONY IN SNAPPY GAME SUNDAY, 1-0

The Tri-State ball club shut out the strong Harmony ball team, 1 to 0, Sunday. The score was made in the first inning by Klum's two-base hit followed by Abraham's hit. Lamberson of Tri-States, and Helgeson of Harmony both pitched good ball having 13 and 11 strike outs respectively. Lamberson would have had a no-hit, no-run game except for a hit in the eighth for two outs. Only one run was chalked up against either side. Score by innings: Tri-State...100 000 000-1 Harmony...000 000 000-0 Lamberson; Helgeson; Klum and Quammen.

Puzzling Plays By Billy Evans

There is a funny old first base and one man out. With two strikes and two balls on the batter, the runner on first starts to steal on the next pitch. The ball is inside, but the batter does to hit it. He takes a healthy swing, but misses. As the batter misses the third strike, the pitcher is so far inside it ticks the batsman's shirt.

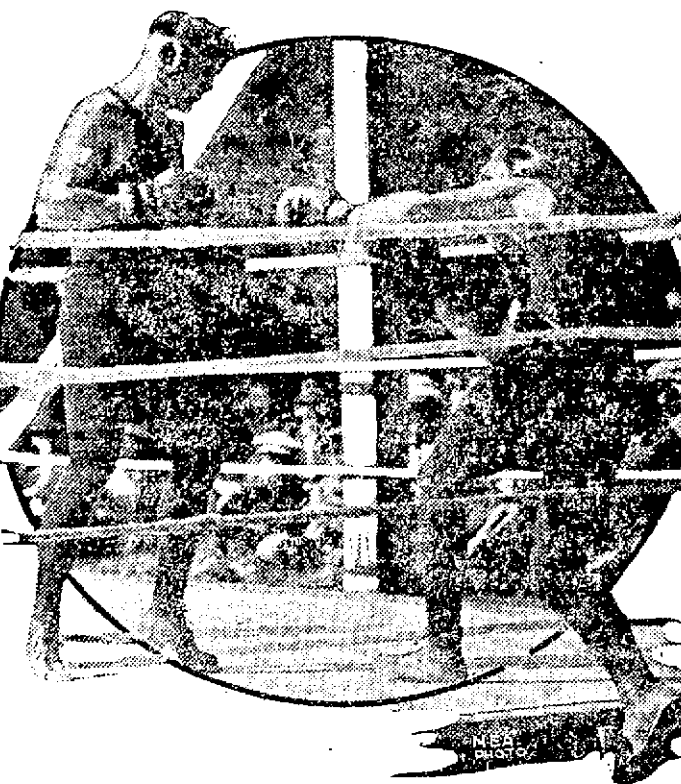

The catcher handles the ball perfectly and makes an accurate throw to second to get the runner who was trying to steal that base. The ball arrives in advance of the runner and the shortstop who handled the throw reached him with the ball a foot in front of the base.

What is the proper ruling? The interpretation. When a pitched ball of which the batsman strikes and misses, comes in contact with the person of the batsman, the ball becomes dead. In the play cited, it happened to be the third strike. I would have retired the batter whether or not the ball was caught by the catcher. The fact that the ball was caught by the batsman, made no particular difference. It is no way gave him the right to steal to second. The ball was dead when it hit the batter and the runner who tried for second should have been sent back to first base. As no play was possible once the ball became dead.

NELSONS RESUME BASEBALL RELATIONS WITH ALMA AFTER A LAPSE OF SEVEN YEARS

LA CROSSE will resume athletic relations with Alma here Wednesday afternoon after a lapse of seven years, when the La Crosse Nelsons meet the Alma aggregation representing that city at Copeland park. The game will start at 5:30. Alma was champion of western Wisconsin in 1915, following which time the national baseball took a slump in that city until this year. The aggregation is coming here at a loss, but figures that a victory over either of the La Crosse clubs would stand them in for a good reputation.

GIBBONS RESTING TODAY FOLLOWING STRENUOUS WEEK

To Occupy Mound for Gibbons
Athletic Club Which Meets
Shelby Tuesday

SHELBY, Mont.—By The Associated Press.—Intermittent, light training regime he has followed during the last week, despite rain and cold weather, Tom Gibbons, contender for Jack Dempsey's title, rested today. His morning hike and catathemes were muscle stretchers. Late Tuesday he will occupy the mound for the Gibbons Athletic club team which is to meet the Shelby nine in a ball game. The rest is being taken by the challenger because he fears that continuous strenuous training will draw him too far from the bout. His weight is about 155 pounds at present. Gibbons will fight July 4 if he doesn't get a two-out stamp for his pains, he said, last night in response to inquiries concerning rumors that the gate receipts might not run high enough to make his 50 per cent above the amount guaranteed Dempsey an appreciable sum. "I am ready to fight; I want to fight," the public is entitled to hear Gibbons said. "I don't care when the receipts are. I will be there when the bout rings ready to fight for the title if I don't get a two-out stamp out of it."

The motto "Shelby will be clean" apparently has been adopted by law enforcement officials here. Eleven men have been arrested for alleged violation of the prohibition law within the last forty-eight hours, two of the leading amusement resorts have been closed and a quantity of whiskey and beer confiscated.

Kinks o' the Links by PRO

The opponent plays to the green with a long backspin mashie stroke. It is understood that the backspin stroke will collect a bit of soil when landing right on a soggy green. The opponent, on reaching the ball, finds the mud hanging to it. He picks it off carefully and cleans it off, replaces it with the same care, and proceeds with the putt. Is the ball, when so covered with soil, considered unplayable? Most on the ball is not considered to make it unfit for play. If you clean the mud from the ball you lose the hole in match play and in medal play you are disqualified, except under special sections of local rules by committees in charge. U. S. G. A.

The flag is off center on the green. The opponent's ball lies within 10 feet of the pin on the edge of the green. The player's ball lies about 15 feet from the cup. Who shall take the honor in putting? When two balls are on the putting green, the one nearest the hole-putts first. As in the case above the ball on the edge is not on the green, even though it is nearer. Such a shot would still be considered an approach and the player on the green should wait.

BUDD MAINTAINS TWO GAME LEAD IN K. V. LEAGUE

Westby, Soldiers Grove and Budd Win Games on Sunday

The Budd baseball nine still maintained two games in the lead in the Kickapoo Valley league as a result of winning from Gary Mills Sunday, 9 to 4. Budd has now won six and lost only one.

Westby won from La Farge on the latter's diamond Sunday which resulted in the two teams going into a tie for second place with four victories and three defeats apiece. Haggen, for Westby, made a sensational catch back of second base. The timely stick work of Neprud gave Westby its winning scores in the ninth, when his drive to left field scored Pierce and Haggen.

Soldiers Grove narrowed the margin between themselves and Viola to one game Sunday, winning in the game played at Viola, 3 to 2.

THANKSGIVING DAY GAME DECIDED ON FOR HOMECOMING

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Believing that the Marquette University-University of Vermont football game in Milwaukee on Thanksgiving day, 1923, is the best local drawing card on the season's schedule alumni of Marquette have chosen November 29 as the date of their annual homecoming. In the last few years, the reunion has been held earlier in the month. With many of the students of Thanksgiving day, it is probable that alumni features will predominate more than they have in the past. General committees for working out plans will be appointed in the near future by Alumni association officers.

WILLIAM MAUTHE RENEWES ATTACK ON TAX LEGISLATION

Demands Amendment to Bill
Providing Limit Assessment of Real Estate

FOND DU LAC, Wis.—"My position can be stated in one brief sentence," on Monday, declared William Maunthe, local La Follette leader, who is the center of the legislative fight over the Hanson tax bill, now up for reconsideration before the state senate. "I am against the Hanson bill unless it definitely reduces the tax on home owners. I am for the Hanson bill if upon its reconsideration there is added a definite provision that the tax on real estate will be reduced in proportion to the increase on incomes."

"It was not my wish to be drawn into politics," explained Mr. Maunthe. "I am a manufacturer, but I stand for honesty, and I protested when I saw action contemplated which I considered dishonest. When Robt. La Follette Jr. asked me to persuade Senator Tins to vote for the Hanson bill on the ground that it was keeping a campaign pledge, I so advised Tins. The senator then asked if I had read the bill to see whether it really was the keeping of a pledge. I spent the entire evening reading the bill carefully, and ended with the conviction that the Hanson bill was not meant to keep the campaign pledge."

Not Keeping Promise.
"The two main promises of the progressives last fall were reduction in administrative expenses and transfer of the tax burden from the poorer to the wealthier. I believe Gov. Rhaine has done his best in regard to keeping down the bills, but I do not believe the Hanson bill is keeping the other promise."

With considerable candor Mr. Maunthe added: "I realize that many will condemn my stand on the face of it because they condemn me as a corporation man. Yet I have been a corporation man for twenty-five years and I have not changed my stand in that time. I have always supported the progressive movement in Wisconsin politics and I am honestly in favor of it. But I am not in favor of a camouflaged keeping of campaign promises. I do not own the corporations which I manage, the stockholders own them, and the stockholders will receive no benefit from my stand because what they gain on one side they lose in the proportionate increase on the other."

Won't Reduce Tax.
"I believe the bill is dishonest because it promises to reduce the taxes of the average man, but will not do so. It will abolish the mill tax and thus the claim is made that cities may reduce their taxes. But there is no record of a municipality or a village taking advantage of such action. The bill simply shifts the tax burden from the state to the city. And when the cities find their income reduced by the loss of revenue from the income tax, they will not reduce their real estate taxes in the end. The wealthy will pay more taxes. But the average home owner will pay just the same as he is paying now."

"My solution to the difficulty," Mr. Maunthe declared, "is the introduction of a provision limiting the amount of assessment upon real estate to a certain portion of its assessed value. Otherwise I can not lend my support to the measure. Telephone calls and telegrams have taken up my time nearly all morning seeking to have me change my position but I can not do so with honesty. The working man must not suffer through a camouflaged tax scheme."

RAIL IMPROVEMENTS TO COST MILLIONS

Two Million Alone Will Be Spent by Roads in Northwestern Region

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—The Pennsylvania railroad system has begun a series of improvements to cost more than $125,000,000, according to an announcement made by the road here recently. Work has already begun on improvements costing more than two million dollars in the northwestern region, which includes most of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

The largest single improvement will be at Fifty-fifth street, Chicago, where the tracks will be elevated at a cost of $416,221. Another expenditure, of $121,379, will be made just four blocks south, at Fifty-ninth street, where the Pennsylvania shops are located. Facilities for making heavy repairs to freight cars will be installed in these shops so that disabled cars can be put on the tracks promptly, in accordance with the present campaign to keep all equipment in constant service.

Pennsylvania railroad coal docks at Sandusky, Ohio, will have their slip deepened to permit the entrance of large ships and allow continuous passage to other crafts.

A second track will be extended from Webbs to Wallbridge, Ohio, with a 125-car capacity siding at Webbs, at a cost of $400,000. This improvement will expedite the handling of freight from Toledo and relieve the Toledo yard from considerable congestion.

At Ft. Wayne, Ind., a 110-foot turntable will be installed to replace a 55-foot turntable, which has become inadequate for the large, modern engines. This will cost $68,000.

The announcement says that these improvements are in accordance with the nation-wide campaign being conducted by the American Railway association to have all railway equipment in constant service for the expected traffic this summer, when the present business boom will reach its height.

MAXWELL DENIES HE WAS AUTHOR OF POISON PEN NOTES

Charges are False Says New York Author as He Pleads
Not Guilty

NEW YORK.—Declaring he had returned from abroad to vindicate himself and bring to justice the guilty parties, George Maxwell, president of the Authors, Publishers and Composers' Association of America, on Monday pleaded not guilty to a charge of writing poison pen letters to Allan A. Ryan.

He was released on $5,000 bail. Mr. Maxwell was indicted last April, after Mr. Ryan had appeared before the grand jury with the poison pen letters. The letters cast aspersions on the character of Mrs. Ryan, other socially prominent persons, and Mr. Maxwell. Mr. Maxwell was in Paris when the indictment was found.

The charges against me, Maxwell said, "are viciously false. I have come back not only to vindicate myself, but to see that the persons who have made my life miserable and tortured me and my friends for six years are brought to justice. Those who know me will admit that I am plain and outspoken and that if I have occasion to condemn or criticize another I do not hide behind masked letters."

AT THE MAJESTIC TODAY
At last Ethel M. Dell, famous writer of famous love stories, has capitulated to the call of the screen. This clever writer, whose books are nationally known, has long been in demand by moving picture producers, but not until George H. Davis convinced her that she was doing a real service to her public by releasing her books to the moving picture exhibitors did she listen. She immediately started to work to personally supervise her best seller, "The Lamp in the Desert," which will be seen in this city at the Majestic Theatre today and Wednesday.

The story is that of the love of two men for a woman, as lovable a heroine as movie fans ever met. The scene is set in the enchanted land of India, and is said to be replete with dramatic situations and thrills.

"HER FATAL MILLIONS"
It has been many a day since we have seen a photoplay so thoroughly delightful and amusing as "Her Fatal Millions." Viola Dana's new Metro starring vehicle, which opened yesterday at the Casino Theatre.

Little Miss Dana captured the audience with her charm and vivacity. Never once did interest flag in this fascinating and rapidly moving story. When the audience wasn't laughing it was being surprised or thrilled by some unexpected turn.

It is about a girl who "borrowed" jewels, furs, a limousine and even a husband in order to pose as a millionaire. She was desperate because an old sweetheart was coming and she didn't want him to find out over her with his wealth. And there are all sorts of complications.

STRAND—TODAY
In "The Midnight Cabaret," Larry Semon's latest release through Vitagraph, which will be shown at the Strand Theatre today, the comedian will be seen in a role that makes him particularly likeable to his screen followers. He plays the waiter in the smart restaurant, and his personal comedy reveals new qualities of good acting by this versatile comedian. In addition there will be dozens of stunts for which this ingenious maker of comedies is famous.

An added attraction is "The Lion's Mouse," featuring Wyndham Standing.

A DRAMA OF LOVE
IN RAY'S NEW FILM
A new and virile Charles Ray, with an acting scope and power unknown to many devotees of this favorite star, will be seen at the Rivoli Theatre on Wednesday when he will present his second feature under the banner of United Artists, entitled "The Girl I Loved."

THE FIRST SMOKED HERRING

The following story of the Yarmouth bloater is told by the Elizabethan writer, Thomas Nash, in his "Penten Staffe": "At a time when chimneys were not known, a fire of wood was placed in the center of the principal room of the house and the smoke was allowed to escape through the roof. A fisherman who had hung up several rows of fresh herrings, and forgotten to take them down for some time, found them when he did so of a golden color and the meat deliciously cured." Others appreciated the new dainties as much as he did, and the lucky fisherman made a fortune before the secret of bloater making leaked out.

SWEDEN'S PAPER MONEY MAY BE WORTH MORE THAN GOLD
STOCKHOLM.—When the dollar began to rise in London recently, the Swedish State bank continued to sell dollars in order to keep the Swedish crown on par with the American currency, but the dollar went up to 3.755 from 3.74. The State bank at the beginning of this year had a portfolio of foreign currency amounting to 160 million crowns but this has now been reduced to 63 million.

According to the experts, the bank would be in a position, if parliament rejects the proposal for a further postponement of a return to a gold footing, of selling its paper notes higher in value than the corresponding number of crowns in gold.

NO ADVANCES MADE BY PROGRESSIVES IN TAXATION FIGHT

Opponents of Tax Revision Claim One-vote Lead Will Hold in Wednesday Vote

DAHL BILL KILLED LAST WEEK COMES UP AGAIN WEDNESDAY

Progressives Must Have Ridgeway or Titus Vote to Win

MADISON, Wis.—By the Associated Press.—Few advances of importance have been made by the La Follette Progressive Republicans within the last few days to make concessions in the legislative tax fight that is to be wound up on Wednesday, so far as can be learned. Opponents of the proposed revision of the state income tax law believe that they will be able to hold their one vote lead at the time of Wednesday's vote.

Senator W. A. Titus, Fond du Lac whose vote is to determine the outcome of the controversy over revenue legislation has not made known what his final stand will be. He has definitely announced, however, that unless substantial changes are made in the Harrison substitute to the 1917 general income tax bill, he will be forced to oppose it on Wednesday as he did last week.

Just what changes the La Follette forces are willing to make in an effort to capture the needed votes to assure passage, have not been announced. There is some talk that amendments will be offered to transform the proposal into the finance committee bill, which was killed, but which received the support of Senator Titus.

The conservatives in the tax fight have 15 votes that they can count on. In addition they expect that Senator Aldo T. Ridgeway will side with them in the Wednesday vote. One more member is needed to prevent the progressives from gaining any advantage.

The progressives have 16 votes that they can count on, in addition to the lieutenant governor. They must win over either Senator Ridgeway or Senator Titus, to assure a victory for their bill, the leaders point out.

Wednesday's tax battle is to be the last of the session by general agreement. If the Dahl bill is killed, no further revenue measures can come before the legislature. If passed, then Wisconsin faces a revision of its income tax laws.

Throughout the session, the tax controversy has been the real basis of the factional division. Once it is out of the way, definitely determined one way or the other, members generally look for a speedy adjournment. They are counting on being able to get away from Madison this week end.

WOMAN WITH GOAT GLANDS SAYS SHE FEELS FINE

MILWAUKEE. — "I'm feeling fine."

Mrs. John Doe, the mystery patient of the goat gland operation last Wednesday, says the words and emphasized them with a smile in an interview Saturday afternoon.

John Doe, her husband, was at the bedside and said his wife seemed better to him than she had shortly after any of the other fourteen operations she underwent on previous occasions.

The woman's rapid recovery from the effects of ether is regarded as something short of a phenomena to her husband.

BILLIE WANTS HER RING BACK

Billie Sorrels, "perfect manicurist" and beauty prize winner of Oklahoma City, received a $750 ring from a wealthy cotton merchant. Then, say authorities, the giver and a friend successfully plotted to get it back by robbing Billie. "Husbands should buy rings for their wives," says the county attorney, who turned the ring over to the man's wife. But Billie is fighting to regain possession of it.

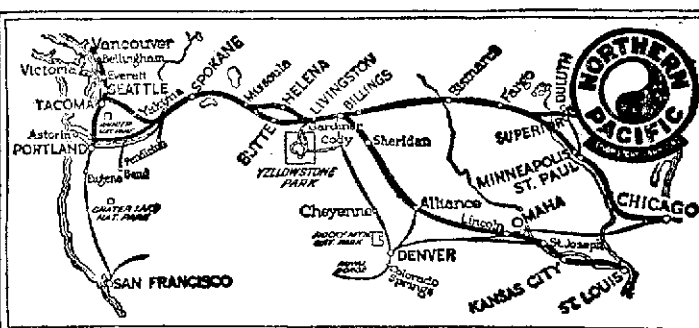

BATTERY D HAS EXCITING NIGHT DURING STORM

Midst storm and darkness the members of Battery D, Wisconsin National Guard, carried on. In pitch darkness teams were hitched, communication lines were placed, while the cannoneers functioned as if under normal conditions, although one driver covered himself with glory and iodine in the doing of it.

The members of the battery were pleased to see their old friend, Herman Streicher, back in the bunch, as Herman has been in Chicago for the past month taking in some special training.

In a discussion of the regular two weeks' camp at Camp Douglas, beginning July 30th, all the men agreed that the program as outlined will make this encampment one to be long remembered as a pleasant and profitable jaunt. The officers and men of Battery "D" are determined to make a record that the citizens of La Crosse will be proud of.

Non-commissioned officers' school will be held Friday, June 28th. Regular prescribed assembly Monday, July 2nd. Immediately after which an informal "get-together" will be held.

SEVEN DEAD AND SCORES HURT IN ELEVATED CRASH

Negligence May Have Caused Accident in New York City Monday

NEW YORK.—Seven dead and more than eighty injured was the toll in the wreck on the Fifth Avenue Brooklyn line of the Brooklyn-Manhattan elevated Monday, when two coaches jumped the track and plunged to the street from the elevated structure. Six of those killed were women. The man has not been identified.

"What caused the train to leave the track is still a mystery and may remain so," said the district attorney in announcing his intention to push an immediate grand jury investigation. "But this much is certain, the condition of the guard beams laid for the purpose of keeping in check derailing trains gives unmistakable proof of culpable negligence in the upkeep of the road."

BADGER VOTERS TO PASS ON MILL TAX FOR REFORESTATION

MADISON.—A referendum vote will now decide whether people want the state to spend up to two tenths of a mill on all taxable property for reforestation.

Governor John J. Blaine Tuesday signed a bill by Senator Titus to provide such action. Such a measure was passed at the 1921 session of the legislature and was again approved at this session.

Another bill gives agriculture enterprises the same right as other industries to demand spur track facilities from the railroads. The bill was introduced by the committee on agriculture.

The governor also signed a bill by

POSSESSION OF MASH EVIDENCE ENOUGH TO CONVICT SAYS RULING

MADISON, Wis.—A conviction under the Severe prohibition enforcement law may be sustained upon evidence that the defendant had mash in his possession, although the mash has not been chemically analyzed to determine whether it contains alcohol, the attorney general's department ruled.

"Where a person is able to testify that he found mash in the possession of the defendant and can recognize it by its look and smell, I am of the opinion that the evidence is sufficient to sustain a conviction," J. E. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general wrote.
